Project Description:

The Centennial Mall project called for the removal of large and unsightly parking areas and cross streets from the center of the campus. These areas were converted into a pedestrian greenway. This area links nearly a mile of continuous pedestrian walkway through the heart of Western's Campus and connects the South Lawn and South Commons to the College Heights District.

The project moved rapidly from detailed design to implementation. We began design development in Spring 2006 and the finished product was dedicated in November of that same year.
